Judge Clerke has informed Robert B. Roosevelt, Chairman of the Democratic Union General Committee that he will positively be a candidate for reflection as Judge of the Supreme Court, from the fact that he has been repeatedly solicited by prominent members of the Bar to enter the canvas, and from the conviction, formed by observation while on the Bench, that it is indispensable to the proper administration of justice that the judge should owe his office to the people, and not to a few individuals. He states that he does not desire merely to hold office, and will only conseht to hold it as the undoubted choice of the people. It has been suggested he should retire, because, if he were elected and the judiciary amountments to the Constitution were adopted, he would reach the age of 70 years, before his term of folice would expire. He states, in answer to this: "If such were to be the rule, no Judge over 56 years of age would thereafter be chosen because he could not serve out a term of 14 years, and many of the ablest and best Judges now in office would have to leave the bench. But the section of the proposed Constitution which declares that no Judge shall hold office longer than until and including the last day of December next, after he shall be 70 years of age, evidently applies to Judges to be elected under that Constitution, if it were adopted, and not to Judges elected under the existing one. Section 6 of Article VI. expressly provides that the Sudges in office, when the proposed Constitution shall conto effect, shall be continued during their respective terms for which they have been elected under the existing Constitution.

Kelly's son and daughter then interfered and took him from the officers, and he himself subsequently set his hands at liberty by snapping the steels that bound them. As soon as he had thus freed himself, Kelly repaired to the street with his soon and daughter, and with brickbats and stones the three commenced an assault upon the officers, who were in consequence forced to retreat. MR. BOWLES ON FUNDING OUR DEBT. PARKER HOUSE, BOSTON, Oct. 16, 1869.
To the Editor of The New-York Evening Post.

DEAR SIR: In reply to your remarks of yesterday's date upon the plan for funding the National Debt, submitted in my letter to Mr. Boutwell, I must object decidedly to your partial quotations and wrong constructions of my meaning. In discussing so grave a matter, it would have been better had you placed my letter in its entirety before your readers (as did THE TRIBUNE of yesterday), instead of attacking its bases in its absence from your columns.

I will reply to your remarks categorically, and as concisely as possible.

First: I neither "advised" nor "asked for" any Banking or Trust departments of the Government, but under the heading of "Other Suggestions" submitted certain current ideas for which precedents exist. As to doing 'a banking business," it is hard to see the difference between doing it directly and doing it indirectly by guaranteeing the National Bank circulation, except that in the one case the profit goes to the Government, and in the other to the Banks.

Second: I not only do not "stipulate for the payment of the coupons in New-York, London and Paris," but one distinctive feature of the plan submitted is, that any and all specified places of payment are purposely avoided, as tending to make us apparently tributary to other nations or money markets. Third: You say that I assume "that such an announce ment would immediately raise the value of 5-20's to par in gold," and you quote them at 90 when the issue of 1862, which is the standard in Europe, has been current at about 93 in gold for three months past.

I must again deny having made any such assumption. The plain words of the letter are, "They (the 1862's) are now current at 93 in gold, but the first official payment in gold at par of no matter how small a portion, would raise the whole of the outstanding bonds to par in gold, and finally settle all adverse questions." I simply reaffirm these statements. Our 1862 bonds are but seven per cent below par, and a payment of any series of that or other issues at par in gold, would set this question of currency payment and all similar doubts at rest. This doubt once finally dispelled by an actual even though partial coin payment, their relative price as compared with English 3 per cent consols at par would be about 145. But they cannot rise above par, because they are due and payable at par to-day if Government wills. So will be the 10-40s in about five years. This is another reason why they are so low; short or over-dus bonds offering no inducements to capitalists for investment, but only for speculation or for the employment of balances.

Herein lies the explanation of the seeming stupidity of Secretary Boutwell and the bankers; the simple secret of the magical power by which the minds of men are to be so transformed that they will eagerly give more for four deliars a year than they will for six."

They will give par for a long term 4 per cent gold bond when they will not give par for an over-due 6 per cent while doubts remain as to its coin payment.

Fourth: When you quoted what I say upon stimulating subscriptions, if you had added its following and exemplifying paragraph, which gives as a precedent the threefold success of a loan similarly handled by the French Government, your criticism would have lost its point. In styling this "sentiment," and saying that "the National pride and faith of men have rarely filled treasuries and never diminished public debts," your first statement finds ample refutation in the public and private subscription of our late war-times and others, while your second point is only good because ours is the only great public debt that has ever been diminished at all!

Fifth: As to a return to specie payments, which I appear to you to lose sight of, I would suggest that although this may not be visible from one stand-point, it may be from some others. The number of us is daily increasing who believe with Secretary Boutwell, that the first way to reduce taxation is to reduce the expense of interest that creates it, and again, that the appreciation of our National credit to its just value will be certain sooner or later to carry the currency debt to par with it, whence specie payments will ensue.

However unquestionably right it is to reduce the inflation, we doubt the wisdom of a policy which would just now contract the currency, and by the consequent convulsions ruin one-half of our community, thereby also disabling them from the payment of taxes, when, with patience, the appreciation of the National credit, under the steadfast policy of our Secretary, will gradually but surely accomplish the same end.

By inserting this letter in your paper, you will give these corrections the same publicity which your criticism has already enjoyed, and oblige your obedient servant, CHAS. S. P. BOWLES.

. WALL-STREET.

Considerable commotion was caused in the Gold Room on Saturday morning by the extraordinary speech of Mr. C. H. Jourdan, Cashier of the Third Na-tional Bank, and Receiver of the Gold Exchange Bank, This gentleman appeared in the Board shortly after the opening, and was greeted with loud applause and calls of opening, and was greeted with loud applause and calls of "Statement! statement!" In reply Mr. Jourdan delivered an address, which as a specimen of forcible, and yet inelegant oratory, will compare favorably with any on record. Divested of the scathing denunciation and profanity with which it abounded, its substance is this: since assuming the duties of the receivership he had been constantly harassed and hampered by the courts and lawyers. A great deal of the delay he attributed to Messra. C. Unger & Co., but in the event of their withdrawal from the courts, others were ready to step into their places. The Bank had decided to lose $250,000, and he wished the members of the Board to remember that had not the bank advanced $4,000,000 to them on the day of the panic, more than half of them would have been runed, as well as many banks. Under the circumstances he considered the withdrawal of their support from the bank an act of gross ligratitude. He asked that the creditors grant him three working days, and if at the ruined, as well as many banks. Under the circumstances he considered the withdrawal of their support from the bank an act of gross ingratitude. He asked that the creditors grant him three working days, and if at the end of that time he was not ready to pay 15 or 20 per cent, the bank might be turned over to an assignees in bankruptcy. He believed the bank to be sound and solvent. Mr. Unger he accused of being rather double-faced in his dealings with him (Jourdan). On the whole, the brokers seemed to take the verbal castigation which Mr. Jourdan administered to them with commendable good humor, although many of the ultra anti-Clearing-House men were heard to mutter against his plain statements. The Board of Directors of the new Clearing-House met on Saturday and appointed a Committee to wait upon the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company to ascertain to what extent that institution would hold itself responsible for deposits placed with it. The doubtful point seems to be whether the Company will hold itself responsible in case of forgery. The creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank met on Saturday afternoon and decided to allow Mr. Jourdan to take his own course in settling up the affairs of the institution, convinced that this was the most prudent course. The action of Unger & Co. in impeding the settlement was severely commented on, and it is understood that their injunction will be so modified that Mr. Jourdan will be enabled to proceed shortly to a definite settlement of the bank's liabilities.

Alfireman accidentally killed.

Shortly before midnight on Saturday a fire occurred on the second floor of No. 278 Pearl-st. The driver of Metropolitan Engine No. 6, whose house is in Cedar-st., being temporarily fibsent, the foreman, James Whalen, started with the engine. While passing through Cedar-st., when near Broadway, one wheel of the engine went into a hole in the pavement, and the sudden joit threw Foreman Whalen in front of the engine, the wheels of which passed over him, mangling him in a shocking manner, and causing instant death. The body was removed to the engine-house by his comrades and Coroner Flynn yesterday held an inquest. The jury consured the City authorities for leaving the streets in so unsafe a condition. Mr. Whalen bore a very high reputation as an experienced and capable fireman. He has been connected with the Metropolitan Fire Department since its organization in 1865, having been appointed then Assistant Foreman of Engine Company No. 6. He had also served in the old Volunteer Fire Department. He leaves a wife and family at No. 117 Washington-st. His funeral, which is to take place on Tuesday, will be attended by the Board of Fire Commissioners, the Company he lately commanded, and representatives from the Board of Engine Companies. AIFIREMAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

PRIZE FIGHT IN JERSEY CITY. Notwithstanding the vigilance of the police of Jersey City, one of the greatest prize fights of the season came off last night in a room of a saloon near Rail-road-ave. The gladiators were J. C. Collins, "Cast-iron Man," and a pugilist from Boston named John Conno. Man," and a puglist from Boston named John Conno..

The stakes for which they fought amounted to $200. Owing to the profound secresy maintained, the number of spectators was but limited. The affair throughout was strictly in accordance with the rules of the ring. Seconds and referee were appointed. After fighting ten rounds the sponge was thrown up by Conner's seconds and Collins declared the victor. Conner was very severely punished, being nearly blind and his face a disgusting looking mass of pulp. Collins was but slightly injured.

SUPPOSED DEATH FROM MALPRACTICE. Mrs. Ellen Rebill, who resided at No. 26 Rail road-ave., Jersey City, died on Thursday night while being delivered of a child. Mr. John Rebill, the husband, supposing that his wife's death was caused by malpracevening the scene of a serious and exciting row. Two officers had been sent to one of the residences upon the avenue for the purpose of taking into custody Michael Kelly, who was very drunk and very noisy. When the officers attempted to make the arrest, he assaulted them OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

THE TURF. THE JEROME PARK FALL RACES-FOURTH AND LAST DAY OF THE MEETING-MITCHELL, RE-MORSELESS, VESPUCIUS, AB-DEL-KADER, AND DUFFY THE WINNERS.

The Fall-race meeting of the American Jockey Club, at Jerome Park, terminated on Saturday. The attendance was large and select, and if the weather had not been so threatening in the early part of the day, there would doubtless have been an immense assemblage to witness the closing day's sport. There was a chiliness in the air which gave premonition of the fast approaching Winter, and which indeed was plainly indicated by the changing hues of the foliage of the woods that crown the heights around the beautiful Park of Jerome. So well has the meeting just terminated been patronized, and so much unqualified enjoyment and satisfaction has it given, that the Jockey Club. with its customary ilberality, has decided to give an extra day's sport, to come off on Satorday next, when a still more attractive programme of racing than any yet offered, will be provided. It will comprise a steeple chase for a purse of $1,000, over the new line of country laid out for the course, nearly three miles in distance, with fourteen jumps, tences, stone walls, hurdles, posts, and rails, water jumps, and sunk fences, all of which will be within full view of the spectators on the grand stand. Beside this, there will be a two-mile heat race, and one of mile heats, for rich purses, which will bring out the best horses that have run at the meeting. If the Club would abolish the illiberal system of charging entrance money to their purses, there would be a greatly increased number of horses entered, and the public would have the satisfaction of seeing large fields start in these races. With such attractions, and favored with fine weather on the day, we anticipate seeing by far the largest concourse of visitors at Jerome Park next Saturday that has ever been assembled there since its inauguration as a race course. witness the closing day's sport. THE HURDLE RACE was the first event on the card, and was a handicap for all ages for a purse of $500; the entrance money going to the second horse in the race; one mile and three quarters over six hurdles. The entries were: R. Shea's br. h. Eminence, 4 years, carrying 131 B, ridden by Clem Alloway; Jas. Thompson's br. m. Lobelia, 6 years, 140 B, ridden by Israels; H. B. Todd's br. h. Harry Booth, 6 years, 151 B, ridden by Downing; and C. Littlefield's b. c. Mitchell, 3 years, 110 B, ridden by Hugh Gaffney. The pool betting showed Mitchell to be the favorite, with Lobelia second choice; Harry Booth third, and Eminence last in favor. Harry Booth had won the first day's hurdle race very cleverly, and had been handicapped to carry 5 B more weight now, while Mitchell, who ran him close, now carried 1 B less than he then did; the latter consequently meeting Booth on 6 B better terms. This difference in the weight, coupled with the heavy state of the track, which was nearly fetlock deep in mud, made Mitchell the favorite. He led throughout, all the horses jumping the hurdles in splendid style, and winning easily by three lengths; Harry Booth, on whom the heavy weight and ground told, being second, and Eminence third. CENTRAL PARK. How highly the working people appreciate

Central Park was never made more manifest than yester-day. The three successive Sabbaths preceding it have been stormy. As it is only on Sundays and holidays that the thousands of our working population can visit and enjoy the beauties of the Park, a disappointment such as enjoy the beauties of the Park, a disappointment such as they were compelled to bear for the last three weeks could be only compensated by such a day as yesterday—with a clear sky, balmy atmosphere, and a bright and gental glowing sun. Shortly after noon the tide of visitors began pouring in, and for four hours a great throng surged into the many entrances, and Nature greeted them in her richest Autumn robes. The drives were filled with vehicles, passing and repassing, the walks were black with pedestrians, and the lake's bosom dotted with small boats gliding as smoothly over its gently-rippled surface as did the swans them.

selves. The little cascade leaped down the rock sides and plashed itself into foam ere it mingled with the waters of the lake, and the winds ran along the summits of the trees singing soft music. The Zoological Garden, which adjoins the old Arsenal, had its charms, especially for the Juvenies. Every week adds further specimens to the list. At the present time there is a very fair collection of birds, beasts and reptiles in and around the old arsenal. The new gardens now building at the west side will not be completed for some time, and until then no proper classification of the animals can be made. The Autumn beauties of the Park will remain but a short time, and those who would behold them should de so at once.

NAVAL.

SAILING OF THE IRON-CLAD DICTATOR-ACTIV-ITY IN THE NAVY YARDS.

The iron-clad Dictator sailed on Saturday, en route for the Gulf waters, in convoy of the United States Naval tender Speedwell. Her original orders were to proceed to Key West, but within a few days they have been changed, and she is to call at Hampton Roads to await the instruction of the Navy Department. The to await the instruction of the Navy Department. The fact is, the Department do not desire to load this vessel too deeply at this season, consequently she will coal at the Roads from the supplies awaiting her, and then will in all probability go to key West to await developments in Cuban waters. Once at Kry West, she could if required, in a few hours anchor inside the harbor of Havama. The following is a list of her officers: Captain—E. R. Calhour; Lieutenant-Commanders—W. N. Allen and C. E. Clark; Lieutenants—DeWitt C. Kells, H. W. Gwinner; Ensigus—W. S. McGunnegle, E. W. Henricks, Wm. Little; Surgeon—John S. Kitchen; Assistant Surgeons—M. L. Ruth, J. M. Scott; Paymaster—F. H. Hinman; Chief Engineer—G. R. Johnson; 1st Assistant do.—L. J. Allen, E. Olsen, W. D. Smith; 2d Assistant do.—B. F. Wood, G. W. Shiver, Wm. A. Windsor, A. B. Bates; Geo. C. Neilson; Paymaster's Cietk—J. F. Harvey; Captain's Cierk—J. E. Engle.

The Department of Steam Engineering at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard is busily engaged in perfecting and repairing the machinery of the following vessels: Colorado, Minnesota, Hartford, Guerriere, Canandaigna, Wachusett, Swatara, Albany, and Severn—the last two named being in commission. The Swatara will probably be put in commission this week.

Eight seamen from the European Squadron have arrived at the Navy-Yard in the store-ship Guard, Capt. Wm. Adams. They are charged with refusing to do duty and assaulting their superior officers. They will be sent to the Naval prison in Flatbush-ave.

On Saturday morning, about 11 'clock, Jas. Mowatt, superintending foreman of repairs on board of the United States steamer Colorado, while engaged in working around the safety-valve of one of the boilers either lost his footing or was struck by the valve-lever, and was thrown into the lower hold, a distance of over 20 feet. He was taken to the office of the Surgeon of the Yard, where every attention was paid to him. The medical men pronounce his case not serious.

where every attention was paid to him. The medical men pronounce his case not serious.

Affairs at the Boston Navy-Yard are quite brisk. The Alaska is nearly ready for sea. The Nautasket is ready also. The two-turreted monitor Terror, late Agamenticus, is ready for sea-orders. The Wabash is being made ready for a flag-ship of a foreign squadron. The Niagara, which the Department is always altering, is now to be converted into a broadside iron-clad. Several other ships are in process of repairing, and will be ready for sea at various times within the coming six weeks. The store-ship Supply will sail shortly for the European Squadron. The court-martial of Lieut. Commander Seely of the United States steamship Pawnee, charged with cruel treatment to seamen, closed at Boston on the 15th inst. The findings of the Court will be sent to Secretary Robeson for his approval and promulgation.

It is possible that most of the available iron-clads will be put in such order that in a few days they can be sent to sea, ready for active service.

THE SPANISH GUNBOATS.

The Canoneras, at the foot of Thirteenth-st., North River, are continually guarded by an armed naval tug mounting a 12-pounder howitzer. Several of the boilers are nearly ready to go on board, and the machinery is being finished with all possible speed in the shops. The workfinished with all possible speed in the shops. The workmen are engaged in laying down the pivot-circles on the forward deck of several of them. By this time the armaments have reached Havana, and will be stored until the vessels reach that port—if they ever do. The Spaniards have 18 vessels of this class now which were built in 1869.
They all mount one gun, are screw propellers, and carry a crew of 30 men. They are named as follows: No. 1, Mindanas; 2. Calamianes; 3. Paragna; 4. Mindoro; 5, Prueba; 6, Panay; 7, Samar; 8, Cebri; 9, Bubisar, 10, Tolo;
11, Maribeles; 12, Arayak; 13, Pampauga; 14, Bogeador, 15, Balanquinqui; 16, Albay; 17, Mactau; 18. Taal. The new craft are far superior to those built nine years ago.

for three year olds, $600 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added, two miles, had It entries, of which the following six started: R. W. Cameron's br. f. Invercauld, A. Belmont's b. c. Glenelg, W. Cottrill's ch. c. Cottrill, H. C. Cottrill, H. C. Wespacius, and M. H. Sanford's b. f. Niagara. Glenelg having won the Travers and Champion stakes in commanding style, was made a great favortic, selling in pools for $500$, Cottrill, $500, Invercauld, $520, and the field, $200. The start was a wretched one, the flag being dropped when Niagara had her head turned away in the opposite direction, and she did not get off until the others had gone around the upper turn. Blarney Stone made the running, with Vespucius second, Glenelg third, Cottrill, Invercauld, and Niagara the next three. Going around the bill Glenelg took the lead, with Blarney Stone, Vespucius, Cottril and Invercauld in successive order. They ran thus until coming up the homestretch where Vespucius took sides with Glenelg, and the pair ran head and head under the string, with Cottril at three-quarters; Blarney Stone fourth, Invercauld fifth, and Niagara sixth and last. Before reaching the quarter pole, Cottrill passed Glenelg, and challenged Vespucius for the lead, and the two ran locked together around the hill, Vespucius and Cottrill, the battle out; the latter eventually winning by a length, Glenelg second, and leaving Glenelg, and cottrill and Glenelg both passed of the smile.
